

Jeb Bush's Statement of Support for a Nemours Children's Hospital in Orlando

- “I hope it can get solved because you have the medical school, the Burnham Research Institute, the Veterans Hospital that is being committed to and finding a way to reach an agreement with a world class children's hospital in concert with or separately, that's the debate, to be located in Orlando. I think that you would see Orlando emerge as a destination place for health care. I was born in Midland but grew up in Houston; Houston's got a medical center that people from all over the world go to. There's no reason why they [Nemours] couldn't come to Orlando with all of the other attractions that take place. I hope they work it out.”

– Jeb Bush, Former Governor of Florida